

Officials deny rumors of ambulance service closing

By Ben Kleppinger

STANFORD — Rumors have been circulating in Lincoln County that West Lincoln EMS is poised to go out of business and become the second such ambulance service in the county to do so since May 2013.

The rumors have spread enough that they were raised as a discussion topic with Lincoln County Ambulance Board Chairman Jerry Shelton at a recent public fiscal court meeting.

But at an ambulance board meeting Monday evening,

West Lincoln board chairman Troy Cain said the service is OK financially.

"I don't know where the rumors have come from," Cain said. "To my knowledge it's not about to shut down."

Shelton said the county ambulance board is moving forward with annual contracts for West Lincoln and the other three ambulance services in the county — Stanford EMS, East End Ambulance Service and Waynesburg Rescue Squad.

Shelton said he's "hopefully confident" — but "not fully confident" — that all four of the county's operational ambulance services will remain open during the 2014-15 fiscal year.

The board met primarily to discuss final revisions of the contracts for each of the four private ambulance services that cover Lincoln County. The contracts require the ambulance organizations to provide EMS services that are up-to-code and non-discriminatory for one year in order to receive taxpayer funding.

Shelton said he talked

Annual Lincoln relay event raises more than $101,000 to fight cancer

By Nancy Leedy

With a sneeze and a snap, Marty Robbins' life changed forever.

"My story began in 2009," Robbins said as a silence fell over the 2014 Lincoln County Relay for Life.

The fun and games usually associated with the annual American Cancer Society (ACS) event were set aside at 10 p.m. Friday night as Robbins took the microphone to relive his battle with cancer.

"I was sitting on the couch with my laptop in my lap, and I sneezed. And when I sneezed my femur broke, my leg and hip broke at that point," he said, with his wife Carla at his side. "I'm not sure you can imagine the pain associated with your leg breaking with no warning."

The violent breaking of bones came a few months after a casual observation by Robbins' pastor.

"It was on a Sunday after church and my pastor said to me, 'Marty are you walking with a limp?' I hadn't noticed it and no one in my family had noticed it," he said. "Ultimately, a few months later after a couple doctor visits and x-rays and things that kind of scared me, my leg and hip broke."

A whirlwind of doctors' visits followed and Robbins was eventually referred to doctors at Vanderbilt in Nashville, Tennessee, which led to five surgeries. Throughout the entire period, Robbins' health kept getting worse. But he was told that there was nothing wrong with him. They said he had a benign tumor and that he was "cancer-free."

But as his health continued to deteriorate, Robbins and his wife decided to take action.

"We decided that we had to do something or I would not survive," he said. "So we went to Cleveland, Ohio to the Cleveland Clinic. I saw

Kings Mountain news

By Beverly Murphy

We begin our news today with more sad news concerning the Hibbard Family from Kings Mountain. On Saturday, June 14, Jane Hibbard passed from this world. On Monday a celebration of life was held in her honor in Stanford. A large group of family and friends gathered to attend and remember Jane. 2014 has been a sad year for the Hibbard Family and our condolences go out to all of them.

The Pleasant Point Baptist Church held its annual Father's Day breakfast for the fathers in their church. The breakfast was tasty and enjoyed by a fair number of members. I was told that the meal was also prepared by the fathers!!

We wish all the fathers in our area a belated Happy Father's Day.

Last week was a very important week for Miss Emerson Lynn, granddaughter of Deanna and Jim Floyd. She graduated from her Stanford Elementary kindergarten class on the same day that she turned six years old. After graduation, she enjoyed a birthday party complete with cake, ice cream and gifts. Later on that week Emerson attend the Brodhead Horse Show with Deanna and Jim where she rode in one of the events for her age group. On Sunday she attended church with Deanna and Jim. It was a busy week for a super little girl. Happy birthday Emmy and congratulations, you are now a first grader!

Our Memorial High School Class of 1963 met for dinner last Thursday night at Ward's Restaurant. We shared our many stories about Violet Bell when she was our teacher. As I sat at the table and looked at some of the people she had taught, I was reminded of the great influence on not only all of us, but on all of the many students she taught throughout her long career.

In honor of Father's Day Sunday, June 15, Lisa Johnson sang a special. "Daddy hung the moon" were words in the song that were paid tribute, not only to her dad Larry Young, but to all fathers. Thanks, Lisa.

We welcomed the Kentucky Changers Sunday, along with Bro. Gary and Lucille King. They will be working this week at the Kings Mountain Memorial Community Center.

The choir sang a special Sunday that was a tribute to our heavenly Father. "We will remember the works of Your Hands! You are the Creator, life sustainer, deliverer, our comforter, our peace in the midst of the storm, our helper, our liberator, and Giver of life with no end!" Beautiful words with an even more beautiful meaning!

Bro. Kyle's message was "The Father's Love—Becoming God's Best Version of Life" and was taken from Gal. 2:19-20. The old saying "you can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear" was in essence the message. Michael Jordan was a tremendous basketball player, but not so when he tried baseball. That was not his forte.

God has a version of everyone. We are each uniquely made, and He wants to make us His own and to change us individually so we can become the best we can be. No two people are exactly alike, and God never treats any two people the same. To grow as a Christian does not mean we have to become someone we are not.

The three truths in Sunday's message were we are made for God; God loves each of us; and God made us to live on grace. "Cars run on gas; our souls run on grace," Bro. Kyle stated. "His grace allows us to grow and continue in our relationship with Him; all we need is Jesus!" Bro. Kyle further stated.

Our job as parents is to help our children to realize their uniqueness – just as God helps His children to realize their uniqueness. We can't change people; but God can!

Pleasant View extends sympathy and prayers to Glen Story and his family. His sister Wilma Gooch from Stanford passed away last week. We also extend sympathy and prayers to Bonnie Holton. Her mother, who is from Waynesburg, passed away this week.

We will have a fellowship on Sunday evening, June 22 at 6:30 at the shelter. The church will provide the chicken strips, bread and drinks. Everyone is asked to bring a vegetable, salad or dessert. Cakes/pies are needed to be auctioned as well. The funds raised will go toward the youth's various trips/missions.

On July 6 Pleasant View Baptist Church will have Freedom Sunday. Sunday school will start at 9 a.m. Worship in the shelter will follow at 10:15 with testimonies, color guard, special music and the guest speaker will be Dale Rose, an evangelist from Wayne County. A community fellowship meal will follow at 11:30 a.m. The church will provide ham biscuit, vegetable/fruit trays, and the drinks. Everyone is asked to bring finger foods and desserts. Make plans to attend this wonderful service.

Our youth will participate in the Kentucky Heartland Outreach (KHO) during July 13-19. See Matthew Mofield for more information.

Crossing Kid's Camp

will be July 20-23 for students finishing second through sixth grade. The cost is $200. See Stacy Story for more information.

We are looking to procure addresses for long-term missionaries that you know so we can send encouraging letters to those who are overseas. If you know someone serving who would love to get some snail mail from the States, please see Rebecca Cook or Charlotte Abel.

News from New Covenant Church

By Bethany Rowland

There are no words to describe the services at New Covenant Church this past Sunday, June 15.

The presence of God was overwhelming as the congregation worshipped in perfect unity, falling in the altar. Five precious souls who were saved in the Lincoln County jail services in the last few months/years were filled with the baptism of the Holy Ghost. What a glorious day in Christ!

We would LOVE to have you come visit any time you can and feel welcome to join in what God is doing in our midst. Our service times are Wednesday nights at 7 p.m. and Sundays at 1 p.m. We are located at 3115 Ky Hwy. 698 in Stanford. Please come and be with us, everyone is welcome. To God be all the glory!

Card of thanks

The family of Correne Smallwood Gross expresses its gratitude to all who offered comfort and assistance in any form to her and the family, especially during her last several months of life.

We especially thank the following for their concern and kindnesses: the Rev. Tim Mathis and members of the First Baptist Church, Danville; Mt. Freeman Baptist Church, Junction City; and to nurse Rebecca Baker and other staff of Heritage Hospice, Danville.

Correne's death leaves a void that will never be filled. Greatly mourned by her family and friends.

Art and Water Festival held in Stanford

The first ever Lincoln County Water and Art Festival was held Saturday in downtown Stanford. Among the attractions were rehabilitated birds of prey brought by Letcher County 4H, educational water-quality-focused classes, live music and food, arts and crafts for kids, an art show and a farmers market.

Severe storm causes outages and damage in Crab Orchard

CRAB ORCHARD — Severe weather, including strong winds and heavy rain, caused damage to dozens of trees in Crab Orchard the evening of June 10, creating a citywide power outage and loss of telephone service.

Five homes suffered “moderate to severe” damage from tree limbs falling on them, Lincoln County Emergency Management Director Don Gilliam said.

“I’m sure there were many more that had light damage,” Gilliam said.

Among the damaged buildings were a trailer home that had a tree skewer it in the side; a house along Main Street that had portions of its roof blown off; and a house along Ky. 39 that had a tree in its front yard fall against it.

Jennifer Rowe’s home along Holly Lane was struck three separate times by falling limbs. She said she was inside when the limbs struck her house.

“It shook the whole house,” she said.

Frank Horton with East End EMS said the storm damaged the roof of the building housing the ambulance service and the Crab Orchard Fire Department.

The winds that blew through the city were impressive, Horton said.

“I thought it was going to tear the windows out of the building,” he said. “It scared me to death.”

Stanford Street was blocked for hours following the storm due to a tree that fell across the roadway and pulled on telephone and power lines.

Gilliam said three utility poles in the area had to be replaced by AT&T and Kentucky Utilities workers.

Everyone whose buildings suffered damage in the storm had places to stay the night, so no emergency shelter had to be opened, Gilliam said.

Power had been restored to all area customers the following morning, according to Kentucky Utilities’ outage map.

There were no reports of any injuries suffered during the storm.

“It could have been a lot worse,” Gilliam said.

SHOOTING

shortly after 4 a.m. June 10, Lincoln County Sheriff Curt Folger said. It’s possible another male subject was also on the property when the gun was fired, Folger added.

Jacobs may have fired once or twice — one shell casing has been found at the scene, but witnesses report two shots, Folger said.

“We don’t know if they were fired at family members or (elsewhere),” Folger said. “But there were shots fired.”

Folger said Stringer had called 911 to report a domestic violence incident earlier, so he was already on the way to the scene when the shots were apparently fired.

“When we got on-scene, Mr. Jacobs was inside the residence. We attempted to call him out to no avail and we tried approximately for an hour to get him to respond to us,” Folger said. “We were informed that there were more weapons in the residence and that’s why we took our time trying to call him out.”

But as sunrise approached, Folger said the importance of ending the stand-off increased, because deputies would lose the advantage of darkness and nearby businesses would be opening and more people would be around.

“We just wanted to make sure that if anything happened, we would keep from anybody getting hurt,” he said.

Sgt. Ryan Kirkpatrick and Deputy Chase Marcum entered the home to arrest Jacobs and met with no resistance, Folger said.

While in the house, deputies noted “a lot of damage” including “busted lamps, chairs and furniture,” Folger said.

Jacobs was lodged in the Lincoln County Regional Jail, where he was still being held without bond as of Tuesday.

Stringer, 32, of Waynesburg, was also arrested on an unrelated charge of failure to appear.

employees. The contract takes effect on July 1 and expires on June 30, 2015.

“We haven’t (had) any officers since February,” Superintendent Karen Hatter noted.

Stanford’s proposal includes scheduling two officers per day to move between schools, with a presence at least twice a week in elementary schools when possible in the school year.

The department also would coordinate when needed with other agencies, continue to provide traffic control at Stanford Elementary and Lincoln County High schools, and would implement lockdowns and other drills.

The proposal also calls for a manually operated traffic light to be installed on U.S. 27 in front of Lincoln County High School that officers or school staff could turn on during special events or school hours. The new division likely would be headquartered at the high school.

The Board rejected a proposal by the Lincoln County Sheriff’s Office to provide one officer at a cost of $31,866.64, with salary to be reimbursed by the Board to the office and $14,000 in benefits to be reimbursed by the Lincoln County Fiscal Court.

Board hires risk-management company

Board members also voted to accept a contract to hire North Huntingdon, Pennsylvania-based East Coast Risk Management Services to perform a safety assessment, risk mitigation, and to develop a customized corporate safety manual.

The move is part of an agreement with the county’s insurer related to insurance rates and other matters following a May 7 bus accident on Ky. 78 that killed a Stanford man, Hatter said. The issue will be reviewed again later this month.

East Coast will provide other services, Hatter noted, including providing consulting services, forming a company health and safety committee, investigating accidents and management training. A formal inspection and audit program also would be implemented with bimonthly inspections.

Other business

- On the advice of Chief Deputy of Support Ronnie Deatherage, board members voted to sell four old schoolbuses for salvage. Deatherage recommended selling one to Emergency Management for conversion into a mobile command unit.

- The Board also voted to accept Republic Diesel, Stanford Auto Parts, Power Train, Bluegrass International, Kimball Midwest, American Bus, O’Reilly Auto Parts and Battery Warehouse as vendors to provide bus parts and supplies in the 2014-15 school year.

Cumberland Lake Shell, Woodford Oil Co. and Petroleum Traders Corp. were accepted as fuel vendors.

- Lincoln County High School was approved to purchase $10,000 in audio equipment from Pro Sound of Nicholasville, replacing equipment that former football coach Tim Estes said was difficult to properly set up before large events.

“When you turned it on and got everything set up before anyone was in the room, it sounded great, but when there were 2,300 people in there, it didn’t always come out right,” Estes said.

A second bid, made by an unnamed firm, was too high and a third party declined to bid. The new system may include a portable board and case that Estes said could be used inside the facility and outdoors for sporting events.

- Board members also approved $44,726.50 in School Nutrition Department funds for a new serving line, dish tables and a dishwasher, and work tables for Highlands Elementary’s cafeteria. No General Fund dollars will be used.

with the board chairperson for each ambulance service in order to get assurance that none of the services would be going out of business like McKinney Rescue Squad did in 2013.

“I want to make sure that they understand these obligations here that they’re signing,” Shelton said. “I want to make sure that they’re following the contract to the letter of the law because McKinney signed that contract knowing full well that they were in a sinking ship.”

The McKinney service unexpectedly shut down its ambulance operations and lost its state license in May 2013. An audit of the service’s finances conducted after the closure revealed that the service had outspent its revenues by more than $200,000 over the course of three years and ended the 2012-13 fiscal year with more than $30,000 in debts.

Lincoln County is unique among counties in Kentucky for how its EMS service is provided.

In most counties, a single county-wide service provides ambulance coverage. In Lincoln, the special ambulance taxing district divvies up its property-tax revenues among private, non-profit ambulance services that aren’t always subject to the same transparency laws as government entities.

The contract the ambulance services agree to with the ambulance board does give the ambulance board authority to audit and demand financial records from each service.

In years past, each ambulance service has received about $80,000 in funding from the taxing district. This coming fiscal year, that amount will be approximately $85,000, Shelton said.

That amount would have been bigger this year with only four squads instead of five, but the increase was limited in part because Stanford EMS is getting $55,000 more than in previous years in order to operate its county-wide “advanced life-support” service known as Medic One, Shelton has explained previously.

The $85,000 figure is based on the ambulance taxing district taking a 4-percent revenue increase from property taxes, Shelton said.

Taxing districts are allowed to increase their revenues from property taxes by up to 4 percent per year as long as they hold public forums where citizens can comment on the tax increase.

A district cannot increase its property-tax revenues by more than 4 percent without the increase becoming subject to a possible voter recall.

Shelton said the tax increase is necessary to help keep the county’s ambulance services in business.

“We’ve not taken (an increase) for a long time,” he said. “But costs continue to rise and the squads aren’t getting much more money than they did in years past.”

Correne Gross, 82, of Danville, passed away Saturday, June 7, at her home. She had been in failing health for several years.

A native of Waynesburg, Correne was born Dec. 13, 1931, to the late of Lester and Verna Mitchell Smallwood. She was a 1950 graduate of Waynesburg High School, had retired in 1981 from R.L. Polk & Company in Cincinnati, Ohio as administrative assistant to the company accountant and was a member of First Baptist Church in Danville.

Correne married Roy G. Gross of Boone County, on Feb. 27, 1971. He preceded her in death on Jan. 2, 2005, in Ocala, Fla. The couple had no children. Already in failing health, Mrs. Gross returned to Kentucky three years after Roy's death to be closer to family who cared for her needs.

Survivors include three sisters, A. Willena Cook (widow of Kenneth M. Cook) of Monroe, Ohio, Phyllis S. Emerson of Sautee-Nacoochee, Ga., and Velma (Charles) Johnson of Danville; a special stepson, Gregory Gross; several nieces and nephews; and countless friends across several states.

Funeral services were June 13, at Morris & Hislope Funeral Home in Science Hill with Rev. Tim Mathis officiating. Burial was in Double Springs Cemetery in Waynesburg.

In lieu of flowers, contributions are suggested to Heritage Hospice, Inc., P.O. Box 1213, Danville, KY 40423, First Baptist Church, 1570 N. Danville Bypass, Danville, KY 40422, or to the charity of one's choice.

Roberta Jean Haste, 80

Roberta Jean Haste, 80, of Somerset, passed away Sunday, June 8, at Somerset Nursing & Rehab.

Born May 10, 1934, in Somerset, Roberta was a daughter of the late Ezra and Ethel Hall Girdler. She was a homemaker, a cook at Midway Restaurant and Dinner Bell Restaurant and a member of Cumberland Church of Christ.

She was also preceded in death by her husband of 50 years, Harold L. Haste; an infant daughter; three brothers, Ralph, Henry and Lawrence Girdler; two sisters, Mae Girdler and Louisa Soja; and one great-grandson, Kent Gregory Eldridge.

Survivors include two daughters, Bernice Charlene (Lonnie) Eldridge and Ruby Colleen (Ben) Eldridge both of Somerset; four grandsons, Bobby (Christy) Eldridge of Nancy and Robbie Eldridge, Nathan (Emily)

Eldridge and Jonathan (Mona) Eldridge all of Somerset; eight great-grandchildren, Whitney, Cody, Zack and Braxton Eldridge all of Somerset and Natosha, Cole, Connor and Mattie Grace Eldridge all of Nancy; and many friends and relatives that were very special to her. She enjoyed all of her friends at Beecher House Apts.

Funeral services were June 14, at Morris & Hislope Funeral Home in Science Hill with Bro. Ed Bialon officiating. Burial was in Beech Grove Cemetery.

An encouraging word Responsibility is important

By Howard Coop

All too often, tragedies happen, and they are devastating. Frequently, those commenting refer to these awful tragedies as “an act of God”; therefore they are assumed to be beyond all human control and responsibility.

“An act of God” has been defined as “a legal term for events outside human control, such as floods or other natural disasters, for which no one can be held responsible.” They happen, we are hurt, but the blame is somewhere else. Could it be that there is something more that can be said about these terrible tragedies?

At 5:12 in the morning on Wednesday, April 18, 1906, an earthquake of epic proportions hit California. That devastating earthquake led to the death of 3,000 people, the greatest loss of life from a natural disorder in California’s history, and it destroyed over 80 percent of San Francisco. The estimated cost of the damage caused by that earthquake at the time was 400 million dollars. Based on today’s economy, that would be 8.2 billion dollars.

Many times since that earthquake occurred, those commenting upon it have called that natural disaster “an act of God;” therefore the earthquake and the consequences of it were beyond human control and responsibility. But something more may be said. Charles L. Wallis, writing about that earthquake, has pointed out that a distinguished architect, after investigating the San Francisco tragedy, reported, “Dishonest mortar was responsible for nearly all the earthquake damage in San Francisco.”

There is an element of human control and responsibility. A house built with inferior material upon an unsubstantial foundation too close the river will be destroyed by a flood, and a house built with “dishonest mortar” upon a poor foundation over a fault will be destroyed by an earthquake. And it cannot be totally blamed upon “an act of God.”

Human responsibility is important. To withstand the natural disasters of life that are sure to buffet it, a house – and a life – must be built with “honest mortar” upon a substantial foundation.

Jane McFalls Hibbard, 67

Jane McFalls Hibbard, 67, of Kings Mountain, died Saturday, June 14, at Ephraim McDowell Regional Medical Center in Danville.

Born Friday, Nov. 29, 1946, in Kings Mountain, Jane was a daughter of the late Amos and Lillian Derry McFalls. She was a van driver and a member of Lincoln County Senior Citizens Center, of the Methodist faith and the widow of Art Hibbard.

Survivors include a daughter, Lisa (Larry) Fletcher; brothers, Wayne, Jerry (Lynn) and Robert McFalls (Terry Adams); and two grandchildren.

Graveside services were June 16, at Buffalo Springs Cemetery in Stanford.

Barnett & Demrow Funeral Home was in charge.

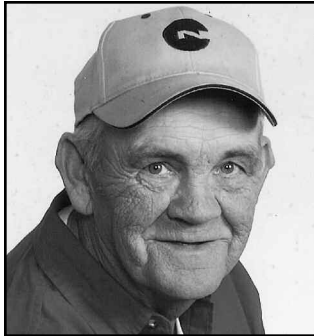

Jerry Dale Hibbard, 67

Jerry Dale Hibbard, 67, of Shopville, passed away Saturday, June 7, at Rockcastle Regional Hospital.

Born Nov. 8, 1946, in Squib, Ky., Jerry was a son of the late Darl and Maranda Randolph Hibbard. He was a retired farmer and truck driver, a member of Buffalo Baptist Church and attended Line Creek Baptist Church. He enjoyed dealing with livestock and spending time with his wife, children and grandchildren.

He was also preceded in death by one brother, Doyle Dean Hibbard; two sisters-in-law, Arlene Cress Hibbard and Clorene Allen Hibbard; a brother-in-law, Harold Mason; a special nephew, Jody Hibbard; and a special great-nephew, Jonathan Wayne Mason.

Survivors include his loving wife of 46 years, Brenda Gaye Burdine Hibbard, whom he married on Aug. 28, 1967; a daughter, Sheila Kaye (Frank) Smith; two sons, Timothy Dale (Trisha) Hibbard and Jimmy "Tyler"

Hibbard; a brother, Bobby (Pam) Hibbard; a sister, Shirley Ann Hibbard Mason; three grandchildren, Stephanie Danielle Smith, Cody Frank Smith and Logan Aaron Hibbard; several nieces and nephews; five special grandchildren, Chakita, Pepper, Maggie, Phil and Sweetie; and his dog, Axel.

Funeral services were June 10, at Morris & Hislope Funeral Home in Science Hill with Bros. Bradley Goforth and Kevin Bullock officiating. Burial was in Hibbard Cemetery in Rockcastle County.

The family requests expressions of sympathy take the form of donations to the Hibbard Cemetery Fund.

Sammy Burnette Miller, 80

Sammy Burnette Miller, 80, of Lancaster, died Wednesday, June 11, at the Christian Care Center in Lancaster.

Born Aug. 19, 1933, in Garrard County, Sammy was a son of the late William Burnette and Janie Belle Ramsey Miller. He was a member of Lancaster Baptist Church and Lancaster Lodge 104 F&AM.

Survivors include his wife,

Patsy Hulett Miller; daughters, Roxane (David) Humphrey and Paula (Ron) West; and a grandchild, Jordan West.

Funeral services were June 14, at Ramsey Funeral Home with Rev. Gary Durham and Dr. Harold Best officiating. Burial was in Lancaster Cemetery.

News from Highland Methodist Church

Sunday, June 15, was a wonderful day for worshipping the Lord and honoring fathers at the Highland United Methodist Church.

Special thanks go to so many women who were instrumental in making the service so meaningful starting with Rebecca Garcia who was responsible for welcoming, announcements and prayer requests. Too, she presented gifts to the newest father, Chaz Garcia, and the two oldest fathers, Dart Davis and Beverly Young.

Special prayer requests were for Vicky Wood (cancer), Phyllis Young's daughter, Sheryl Siler, Jeff Young (major surgery), and two unspoken.

Thanks go to our musicians, Betty Jo Singleton and Kim May, as they beautifully played some not so familiar congregational songs, "God of Our Father's" and "A Christian Home," and to Heloise Reed for leading.

Iva Young prayed a beautiful prayer and led the Lord's prayer.

Violet James did the offertory prayer, and Ellen Hunkins and Jo Ann Elliott were our ushers.

Several visitors were present. They were Scott, Peggy, Kelcie and Cameron Young; Chris Toohey's mother, Shirley, and Chris' little brother, William; and Carl Elliott's daughter, her husband and her son. We were glad to see Darin Pennington present with his family.

A beautiful dedication and baptism of two precious children, Gabriel Ray Garcia and Ethan Hugh Toohey, was conducted by Rev. Scilley.

Their parents are Chaz and Rebecca Garcia and Chris and Lindsey Toohey.

This dedication was followed by Doris Scilley singing, "Another Child to Hold."

Jo Ann Elliott read another one of her wonderful poems, recently developed, entitled, "So God Made a Dad."

This was followed by Dawn Cheetham singing, "My Father's Heart". She also played the piano for the children to sing, "Father Loves Me."

She and husband, Scot, did Children's Church, and they fixed gifts and cards for their fathers.

The message was brought by Doris Scilley who emphasized, "What was needed for man in seeking the heart of God." Many points and thoughts came from Genesis 2 with the creation and the fall of man.

A man seeking for the heart of God needs to confess, admit and accept responsibility and be sorrowful, repent. Other scripture and points, that couldn't be fully covered (time element) emphasized obedience, sacrifice, keeping of promises, and fulfilling one's mission.

Thanks go to Kim May as she read various verses while Doris tried to keep her thoughts in tact!

Too, the congregational participation during the message as we explored some "firsts" was magnificent!

For the invitation a group of ladies sang an old song from the old red books that had never been sung by them before, other than practice. The song was entitled, "Jewels." It contains beautiful words about the family, home, bible and children. Those persons singing were Frankie Young, Heloise Reed, Ellen Hunkins, Dawn Cheetham, Kim May, Doris Scilley, Iva Young and Betty Jo Singleton, pianist.

Frankie Young needs thanks for providing all the gifts for the men.

Dawn Cheetham had a brief meeting after worship to discuss a Bible school date for Saturday, July 12. This is to take place at her residence at the former Charlie Young farm on Greasy Ridge. She has wonderful plans for the day. Please inform her as to who will be attending; so, she will order enough for all children.

Ron Hunkins gave a short statement of what an honor it was for him and Ellen to attend and represent the Highland United Methodist Church at the Kentucky Annual Conference held this past week in Northern Kentucky.

Visit with us each week as we study God's word at 10 a.m. and give him honor, glory and praise at 11 a.m. at the Highland United Methodist Church.

News from the Stanford Nazarene Church

By Buford Edwards II

The mission at Stanford Nazarene Church is to share the gospel message of Jesus Christ to all the world and to be a place of healing and hope to all in need. Come as you are, Jesus will meet you there!

This past Sunday, Bro. Buford brought the message from 1 Peter on the subject “The End is Near”.

On Sunday night, Bro. Dennis Hasty, youth pastor shared the Word with us.

Join us Wednesday nights at 7 p.m. for our “Book Club.” Right now the “Book Club” is engaging the Ashes to Fire series. This is an awesome series that led us through Lent, and Easter as we approach Pentecost. You don’t want to miss it. The youth have powerful services and there are classes for our children. It’s a busy place on Wednesday, come check it out.

WE NEED YOUR HELP! The church is working hard on year two of the “Five Year Plan.” We are actively raising funds to purchase a church van and pay off the debt on the fellowship hall. If you would like to donate to the cause, you can drop off a donation at any service or even mail in a donation. Just remember to write “Five Year Plan,” somewhere (memo field of check or envelope of cash) in order for it to be properly designated.

The Men’s Group and Youth Group have entered into a joint venture to complete service projects in the community. If you are in need of any work done around your home that you are unable to complete, or know of any folks in need, please contact Bro. Robert Bowen or Bro. Dennis Hasty.

June 22 is our Pack the Pew Sunday! Just like last year we will have a morning service and fellowship meal to follow. Last year we had 99 in attendance and our goal is to pack the church till the walls pop out. Please make plans to join us.

The youth are planning an outing to Kings Island on Saturday, June 28. If you are interested, see Bro. Dennis Hasty for details. Also, we need adult drivers/chaperones. If you are willing to volunteer, let Bro. Dennis know. (Your admission to the park will be paid if you are an adult chaperon).

The ladies meet the first Tuesday of every month at 6 p.m. in the fellowship hall. Their next regular meeting will be Tuesday, July 1.

Our 2014 Vacation Bible School will be held Saturday, July 19. This year’s theme is “Christmas in July!” Contact Sister Michelle Edwards for more details.

The Silent Auction and Concession Sale will be Saturday, Aug. 2. We are in need of items for the auction and volunteers. Tax receipts will be provided upon request and all proceeds will go to the 5-Year plan. Begin gathering items now.

The church has an active food assistance program. If you know of anyone or have a need yourself, leave a message at the church.

SERVICE TIMES: We have an amazing variety of blended services. Each week we have “Schoolin” (Sunday school) beginning at 10 a.m., with worship services on Sunday at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. Additionally, our “Book Club,” youth, and children all meet together on Wednesday nights at 7 p.m. The “Book Club” and children always meet at the church and the youth alternate between the church and fellowship hall each week.

For more information about our youth group and children's programs, email the directors by logging on to our website at www.stanfordchurchofthenazarene.com

If you would like more information about our church and events, contact Pastor Buford Edwards at (606) 365-1260 or visit us on the web. Don’t forget to also “like” the Stanford Church of the Nazarene on Facebook to receive updates and an encouraging word.

Religious freedom wins out over Islamophobia in Tennessee case

After four years of protests, lawsuits, vandalism, arson, and a bomb threat, American Muslims in Murfreesboro, Tenn., can finally celebrate the power of religious freedom to triumph over hate and fear — at least in the courts.

Last week, the U.S. Supreme Court put an end to a lawsuit filed in 2010 challenging the permit issued by Rutherford County for construction of an Islamic Center near the city of Murfreesboro. By declining to hear the case, the High Court let stand a Tennessee Court of Appeals decision in favor of county officials.

Opponents of the mosque — convinced that Muslims are a threat to their community — had tried various tactics to halt construction of the Islamic Center. In a last-ditch legal maneuver, they filed suit, charging that the county had given inadequate public notice of a meeting to approve the site plan for the Center.

Now the Supreme Court has put an end to the legal drama — and the Islamic Center is in Murfreesboro to stay.

A remaining lawsuit — this one challenging the right of the Islamic Center to build a cemetery — remains to be resolved. But supporters of the mosque are optimistic that the courts will soon dismiss this final legal challenge.

Of course, history teaches that court victories don't change minds and hearts overnight. Muslims in Murfreesboro have their new Islamic Center thanks to local officials doing the right thing, but they still face prejudice from those convinced that Islam has no place in America.

What's heartening about this saga, however, is how local government officials stood up for religious freedom. Despite strong public opposition, members of the county planning commission voted to treat the building application of the Muslim community like applications from any other religious community.

That took courage. At the height of the conflict, political candidates and anti-Muslim activists worked hard to whip up opposition to the Islamic Center in Murfreesboro and beyond. Even televangelist Pat Robertson weighed in, suggesting that county officials may have fallen victim to Muslims' "ability to bribe folks" and warning of a future Muslim takeover of the city council.

But through it all, county officials stood firm. Moreover, many local religious groups rallied in support of the Muslim community. Students at Middle Tennessee State University helped form Middle Tennesseans for Religious Freedom, a grassroots effort to counter anti-mosque protests. And the Becket Fund for Religious Liberty — one of the nation's most effective defenders of free exercise of religion for all — provided legal support.

Despite this good news out of Tennessee, Islamophobia remains a national problem thanks to a cottage industry of anti-Muslim groups working to conflate terrorism and Islam in the minds of the American people.

"Anti-Sharia bills" are pending in at least 10 state legislatures — all of them motivated by anti-Muslim bias and based on a distorted understanding of both Islamic and American law. (For an accurate understanding of Sharia in America, see "What is the truth about American Muslims?" at www.religiousfreedomcenter.org.)

If past is prologue, however, Islamophobia in our country will fade as American Muslims become more visible in places like Murfreesboro.

We have been down this road before. Not so very long ago, anti-Catholic hatred was at its height in Murfreesboro — and across America. As described by Bob Smietana in the Tennessean, in 1929 angry residents of Murfreesboro marched to the courthouse trying to block the construction of the town's first Catholic Church.

Today some 2,000 families are members of St. Rose of Lima Catholic Church in Murfreesboro. Religious freedom trumped anti-Catholicism 80 years ago — and religious freedom, if we work at it, will trump Islamophobia today.

We may have a distance to go, but we have come a long way. Consider that six of the current nine justices on the U.S. Supreme Court — the very court that put an end to the fight to against the building of a mosque in Murfreesboro — are Roman Catholics. Only in America.

GUEST EDITORIAL — LEXINGTON HERALD-LEADER

US Interior secretary should be apologizing for trampling rights

Rather than even thinking about appealing a federal judge's ruling in Kentucky, U.S. Interior Secretary Sally Jewell and the U.S. Office of Surface Mining should be apologizing.

Abjectly, profusely, unequivocally apologizing for abetting this state's three-decades long violation of the U.S. Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act by permitting strip mining without the consent of all the owners of the land.

Certainly, U.S. District Judge Amul R. Thapar was plain, clear and unequivocal in ruling in favor of a Pike County family whose property is being stripped without its consent by a subsidiary of Tampa-based TECO Energy, which controls only a minority interest in the land.

Thapar ordered a halt to the mining and wrote that "well- established canons of statutory interpretation all point to the same conclusion," that the law "requires the consent of all surface owners. The consent of 'a' surface owner does not suffice."

Thapar, who was appointed to the federal bench by President George W. Bush, did not reach this conclusion casually. He required three rounds of briefs and held three hearings.

When the suit was filed May 16, he declined to issue a temporary restraining order halting the mining until he had time to delve into the arguments.

But no specialized degree is necessary to understand that the legal interpretation he reached is also common sense and what an average person would assume to be legal and fair.

And yet, since 1982, when Kentucky won the authority to enforce the federal law on surface mining, the state has approved strip-mine permits if an owner of even less than 1 percent of the land agreed to the mining, testified Allen Luttrell, director of Kentucky's Division of Mine Permits.

The Interior secretary is responsible for ensuring that a state's enforcement meets the minimum requirements of the federal surface mining law.

And yet, the Interior Department's lawyers responded to the Pike County landowners' lawsuit by saying, in effect, whatever Kentucky says is OK by us.

Interior's indifference to the law and to the people who live with the effects of surface mining is no surprise to Kentuckians who have come to expect it.

Jewell, who has scaled Mount Ranier seven times and became Interior secretary last year, should use this case to educate herself about how her agency's Office of Surface Mining is enabling the leveling of one of the world's most diverse ecosystems and has fallen far short in its duty to protect Appalachia's people and environment from surface mining's harms.

As for Kentucky, this is yet another example of the official favoritism that always has invited the coal industry to trample people, streams, forests, mountains and the law.

a Dr. Joyce. He was well-known in his field, but he was kind of arrogant, as doctors can be sometimes, and we had some run-ins. But he ultimately saved my life.”

Robbins’ life-saving surgeon did several surgeries to clean up the infections in his leg and that is when he discovered the cancer.

“He found a tumor in my hip and he said, ‘You have cancer.’ There were four tumors. The largest was on my pelvic bone, I had two in the soft tissue and then there was one on the sciatic nerve,” said Robbins. “By the time he found the tumors I had stage-four cancer sarcoma. At that point, there was no treatment to save my leg so he took my leg and most of the pelvic area of the left side was amputated.”

It’s been almost four years now since Robbins was diagnosed. And while he is still recovering from the cancer, he says he is “satisfied.”

“I’m satisfied with my life now,” said Robbins. “Through all these tribulations, I could always count on my faith and my family. Even though there were times when I was really sick, I learned that God loved me and he saved me and allowed me to continue to be on this earth to be with my family. And I thank my family because it was a hard experience.”

“My wife Carla has always been there for me and my Father in heaven has never left my side. Without him I wouldn’t be here tonight,” he said. “God Bless you all and thank you.”

The luminaria service followed Robbins’ story, with the lighting of hundreds of luminaries around the track and the release of dozens of sky lanterns in memory and honor of cancer victims and survivors.

The solemn reflection on the survivor’s story and luminaria and sky lantern service was broken when Lincoln County Relay for Life chair Donya Saylor took the microphone to announce that the total dollar amount raised for the ACS this year was $101,623.46.

While the local committee’s goal was $110,000, no tears were shed over substantial amount raised.

“I was very happy with the final total,” Saylor said. “Our 2014 relay event was a success.”

The Lincoln Relay for Life did reach its goal for Relay teams this year, with 32 teams helping lead the local fund-raising effort.

Saylor said she realizes that without the work of the committee and those Relay teams that the Lincoln County Relay would be nowhere close to or above goal every year.

“I would like to thank everyone who helped to make our 2014 Relay for Life such an awesome success,” she said. “As we strive to meet our goal, we know that many researchers are working to find a cure for this horrible disease. Many of our committee are cancer survivors or have family members who have been affected by cancer. Thank you to our committee for their dedication and continued support year after year. Lincoln County has the best committee. I would like to thank the teams who always work so hard to help reach our Relay goal each year. I would like to thank our sponsors and our community for their continued support and generosity.”

Next year’s relay already in the works

The 2014 Relay for Life event ended just six days ago, and already the local committee is thinking ahead to next year.

“The committee will meet in a few weeks and begin planning for another successful Relay for Life for 2015,” Saylor said. “Relay for Life in Lincoln County is such a huge event ... With the tremendous support of our teams, committee, sponsors and community we continue to raise money and strive to reach our goals.”

Friday night’s 12-hour event began with the annual “Survivor Walk.” A total of 81 cancer survivors wearing purple t-shirts were given pins and introduced to the crowd before making their lap around the track.

Throughout the Relay for Life event, various awards were announced over the public address system for outstanding achievement.

The top honors for the night went to the top money-raising teams and individuals.

Brake Parts Inc. was the team gathering the most donations for the ACS, with Friday’s tally at $21,434.72.

Sylvia Leach was recognized as the adult individual raising the most money, with $2,405.71 in donations. Kendra Smith brought in the most dollars in the youth division, ages 13-18, with $4,843.33 raised.

The teams recognized as the top moneymakers by division were:

Family & Friends: Our Team Superman, 1st; and DecoArt, 2nd.

Church: Stanford Christian Church, 1st; and Stanford Presbyterian, 2nd.

Non-Profit: Stanford EMS Code 3, 1st.

Schools: Lincoln County High School Relayers, 1st.

Medical: Fort Logan Hospital, 1st; and Bates, Miller & Sims, 2nd.

The Fitz Dynasty team won the first-place prize for best campsite. The theme for the Relay event was “Cruisin’ the 50s & 60s.” Redemption Road Giggles was second.

The Lincoln County Homemakers were recognized for selling the most luminaries for the evening; Brake Parts Inc. sold the second-most.

At the conclusion of the event, the Our Superman team walked away with the night’s fuzzy-dice spirit stick award. Stanford Christian Church was the spirit runner-up.

For the first time ever, the Lincoln County Relay for Life crowned a king, queen, prince and princess. The winners were decided through the use of collection jars. The winners were: king: Corey Walls, Crab Orchard Baptist Church; queen: Mildred Baird, Our Superman team; prince: Hunter Smith, Our Superman team; and princess: Bae Bae Smith, Our Superman team.

Above, Mildred Baird, the 2014 Relay for Life queen, congratulates king winner Corey Walls as the event’s royalty gathers to make a lap around the relay track. HUSTONVILLE

From A1

Workers have installed the tank’s new mixing system and completed painting of the inside of the tank, Hustonville Mayor David Peyton said.

The words “City of Hustonville” were being painted on the outside of the tank Monday.

Peyton said the paint inside had to be left to dry for seven days after it was applied before water could begin to be pumped back into the tank. Water will probably be slowly pumped back in beginning Wednesday, June 18, he said.

After that, officials will wait for the all-clear from a water-quality test before bringing the tank fully online and using it to provide water to customers, Peyton said. By getting the water-quality test before using the tank, the city will avoid generating a boil-water advisory for the Hustonville area, he explained.

The city is paying $89,000 for the water-tank upgrade, which Peyton has said will allow more water to be held in the tank without decreasing water quality and save the city thousands in water costs.

The city is covering the cost with money from a certificate-of-deposit account worth $150,000 that council members approved cashing out earlier this year.

City officials have said they plan to hold the remaining funds as a cash reserve while the city tackles a $421,000 water-system upgrade next year.

Hustonville residents have been getting water from other water department tanks while the upgrade began in mid-May.

Plans to replace valves in July

Peyton said another water-system project in the works — replacing 10 non-functioning valves in Hustonville city limits — will probably begin in early July.

Because the old valves do not currently function, the water department cannot isolate water-main breaks. As a result, water has to be shut off to large numbers of customers, sometimes including Hustonville Elementary School, when a break has to be repaired, Peyton explained.

While individual residents may be able to make due without water service for three to four hours, losing water service for that same period of time at the school “really causes headaches,” he said.

Because water will have to be turned off while the valves are replaced, the city plans to replace the valves at night, when water usage is lightest, Peyton said.

The valve-replacement project will generate a boil-water advisory for the city, Peyton said.

From left, Riley Fisher and Michael Gregory with C&S Quality Service and Central Painting add lettering to the Hustonville water tank Monday morning. The upgraded tank is expected to be filled and providing water to customers next week.

Kentucky Baptist group chooses Kings Mountain community center for annual mission project

By Ben Kleppinger

KINGS MOUNTAIN — The South Lincoln Memorial Community Center in Kings Mountain is buzzing with power tools and people this week, as missionaries from southern Kentucky are spending five days renovating the former high school and preparing it for a state inspection.

The 62-person crew from the South Union Mount Zion Baptist Association is painting, laying flooring, fixing windows and upgrading the old playground with a border and new mulch, among other projects.

"It's exhausting planning a week's worth of work for 60 people, but it's a blessing to have them come do this," said Josh Jacobs, the community center's director.

The center is already utilized by multiple community organizations, including Boy Scout troops and anonymous support groups, for meetings, and it also plays host to special events, such as a "zombie prom" fundraiser that was held in May.

But there are plans to expand the number of roles played by the largely empty facility, including the creation of an after-school program from the YMCA and the addition of a Lincoln County Public Library branch on the second floor.

Renovations and upgrades are needed to many parts of the building before it can pass a state inspection — a necessary step in order for the after-school program to become a reality.

Jacobs said by the end of the week, the missionary team is expected to complete everything that's left to do to pass inspection.

Organizers expect to ask for an inspection at the beginning of July and then open the after-school program in time for the beginning of the next school year in August, he said.

"God's timing is perfect in my opinion," Jacobs said. "We're getting a lot of things done that needed to be done. These guys are tremendous."

This is the fifth year that the SUMZ Baptist Association has participated in a weeklong summer construction project, said Randy Hamilton, the team leader for the group.

In past years, the association has sent teams to other states and Russia. This is the second year in a row that the association selected a mission project in Kentucky, Hamilton said.

"We specialize in sheetrock because nobody else wants to do sheetrock," he said. "But then we've got skills to do anything in construction, from concrete and framing to electrical and plumbing."

Hamilton said his association chose the Lincoln County project for its 2014 trip after finding it listed by the Kentucky Baptist Association online as a needed project.

"Generally, we work on churches. But we also do community centers — anything associated with the Lord or with church backing," he said. "We follow the Lord in prayer and he guides us in the direction he wants us to go."

Hamilton said he's heard about the big plans Lincoln County has for the community center.

"It's amazing," he said. "I just pray that everything comes together good for them."

Henry Baughman climbs in USTA senior rankings

By Nancy Leedy

Henry Baughman of Stanford enjoyed a fine run of tournament tennis during the 2013 competitive season.

Thanks to his excellent conditioning, the senior player was able to take his desire to win to the courts, and it paid off with a string of victories — and a move up in the United States Tennis Association (USTA) rankings.

In the tennis rankings recently released by the USTA for the previous year, Baughman moved up in the Kentucky, Southern and National rankings in both singles and doubles divisions.

Baughman, who grew up playing tennis on the courts at his family's farm, said the rankings were his best to date.

"In the 2013 campaign, I achieved my highest tennis rankings ever," noted Baughman. "In Kentucky, I was No. 1 in four divisions: in 70 & Over singles and 70 & Over doubles, in 75 & Over singles and 75 & Over doubles. No Kentucky player has ever done this."

In the Kentucky doubles standings, the ranking was based on Baughman's play alongside his brother, Jim Baughman.

Baughman's success on the tennis courts also warranted him No. 1 rankings in the nine-state Southern section. Baughman was ranked No. 1 in 75 & Over singles, and he and Jerry Caldwell of Madison, Georgia were put in the top spot in the standings in Men's 75 doubles.

Baughman, whose reputation earned him an invitation to represent the USTA in international competition in 2013, didn't just merit a first for a Kentucky player at the

LC Youth Football Camp opens Friday

When the horn sounds on the Death Valley stadium clock Friday night, new Lincoln County High School football coach Travis Leffew will see a lot of new faces looking back at him.

There may be some fresh faces in the crowd as Leffew gathers his team around him, but most of the new faces will belong to the athletes attending the annual Lincoln County Patriot Youth football Camp.

The non-contact camp, which is open to all boys in kindergarten through eighth grade, will be held Friday and Saturday at LCHS. The first session runs from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. Friday, June 20, and the second session is from 9 a.m. until noon on Saturday, June 21.

The cost of the camp is $25 per camper.

At the camp, campers will receive instruction from LCHS coaches and current players in all aspects of football, including passing, receiving, running, line play, blocking and defense. Hands-on style instruction will be used to teach the fundamentals, advanced techniques and

Longshots awarded YSSA grant

The Youth Shooting Sports Alliance (YSSA) has announced that the Lincoln County Longshots 4-H Shooting Sports Club has been selected for the 2014 grant cycle.

The Longshots 4-H Club was just one of 122 youth shooting sports programs approved to be supported with an equipment loan of pistols and shotguns for the 2014 year.

The YSSA, which receives numerous requests annually from youth and social organizations seeking financial and product support, also donated a firearm cleaning kit to the Longshots as well as ammunition.

The Longshots coaches have had difficulty providing equipment and supplies to the individuals in .22 pistol and shotgun events. Due to the rapid increase in members over the last few years, the local group has been running low on supplies for practices and competitions.

The Longshots 4-H Club, which now has 40 members, competes in several competitions throughout the year in

Yeager, Thomas, Coffman, Bottoms roll to ‘Lucky Friday the 13th’ wins at Ponderosa

JUNCTION CITY – It was a “Lucky Friday the 13th” for drivers Timmy Yeager, Ryan Thomas, Todd Coffman and Derek Bottoms as they rolled to victory in Friday night racing at Ponderosa Speedway.

Yeager of Harrodsburg picked up his win in Super Late Models, Thomas of Gosport, Indiana got another win in Modifieds, Coffman of Junction City won in Pro Late Models and Bottoms of Taylorsville took first in Sportsman.

Yeager led the entire way in the Super Late Model main event as he scored his first win at Ponderosa after a six year absence at the track. Dennis Roberson slipped past Tim Tungate to take second, Jake Henry crossed in fourth place and Dion Benningfield was fifth.

Benji Lee led the first five laps of the Modified feature contest, but lost his spot to teammate Ryan Thomas on a lap 6 restart. Thomas and Lee motored away from the field during the remainder of the event, with Thomas claiming his second consecutive win at the track. Lee took runner-up honors, Don Adams finished third, 15-year-old driver Blake Brown ran fourth and Rocky Wilson was fifth.

Todd Coffman rolled to a fifth straight feature win in the Pro Late Model division in his #35 car. Victor Lee, subbing for Chris Fair, started at the rear of the field and drove to a second place finish, while Elliott Despain took the third spot. Fourteen-year-old Connor Meade finished fourth and veteran Dennis Barton rounded out the top five.

In the Sportsman main event, Derek Bottoms outdueling Glen Hounshell Jr. on a final restart with four laps remaining, and the defending track champion went on to get his first feature victory of the season in his #93 Chevy Impala. Hounshell Jr. came in second, Jeremy Howard was third, Nathaniel Mullins ran fourth and former track champion Donnie

“No other Kentucky player has ever achieved this high ranking (In the 50-state National),” he said.

Baughman has already gotten the 2014 tournament season off to a winning start, picking up singles and doubles wins in the Southern Indoor Tournament at Nashville.

In singles, he won 6-1, 6-2 over Elton Wiest in his first 75 & Over match, followed with a 7-5, 4-6, 7-5 win over Al Griffin of North Carolina, then defeated Milburn Price of Georgia 7-5, 3-6, 7-5 in the final.

Baughman and Caldwell picked up a split-set win in the Southern Indoor doubles final, knocking off the top-ranked team in the nation, Griffin and Willis Anderson of North Carolina, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2.

FARM FACTS

Timely farming tips

I want to present to you some of my thoughts on pond algae, insect control on newly seeded alfalfa and on fly control for cattle. If you have questions after reading this article, please give me a call and I will be glad to give you more information.

Leafhoppers on New Alfalfa

Farmers should start watching their spring seeded alfalfa fields for potato leafhoppers, those very small, green insects that take only three weeks to complete development from egg to adult. The population can build up to damaging levels very quickly because the life cycle is so short. Females lay eggs in stems and leaves of plants and nymphs that hatch from these eggs feed on plant sap exactly like adults do. These sap-feeding insects can cause new stands of alfalfa to turn bright yellow by mid-June, resulting in what we call “hopper burn”.

Be checking your fields now for these insects. Don’t wait until the alfalfa starts to turn yellow to spray. That seems to be a very easy way to determine when to manage potato leaf hoppers but it is very much like closing the barn door after the cow gets out. Once hopper burn shows up on alfalfa the damage already has been done. Watch those fields closely for signs of these tiny insects. They are at work in some of our spring seeded fields now.

Dustbags Work Well on Flies

Dustbags are a good way to treat cattle for horn flies and face flies. They are a good supplement to the ear tags. The bags are relatively low-maintenance for farmers and they provide an easy way for cattle to get relief from insects. The bags placement is very important. Dustbags should be hung so that they can swing freely. Nailing the bag in place or restricting its movement will cause the hanging grommets or cloth loops to wear out quickly and the height of the bags that are nailed in place cannot be adjusted easily, if necessary.

Bags should be hung low so cattle have to pick them up with their head to get to water or to their minerals. This will give better face fly control, which means less pinkeye. Bags that are hung too high can miss the face and only dust the back of the animal. While this may be sufficient for horn fly control, it can mean less-than-satisfactory control of face flies and probably mean more pinkeye problems. After hanging dustbags, farmers should watch animals as they use them and make adjustments as necessary. Keep the bags loaded with insecticide. Check them every few days to make sure they still have insecticide in them. This system works well on fly control but they must be placed where cattle get dusted every day. Force the cattle to use them by placing them where they have to go through the dust bag to get the water or mineral.

Clearing Algae from Ponds

People are still calling about a lot of pond “scum” problems. The problem is usually algae, sometimes it is pond weeds but most of the time it is algae, so lets discuss ways to rid your pond of algae. Copper sulfate is the old standby frequently used to treat ponds that have an abundance of algae. But it should be used with care, if fish are to remain unharmed. Most recommendations concerning the use of copper sulfate, also called Bluestone, do not take into consideration the fish that may be living in the pond. If too much is used in waters with low alkanity, the fish can be killed. Certain species of fish are more sensitive to the formulation than others. Carp, grass carp, goldfish and trout are reported to be more sensitive to copper than other fish. It may not be advisable to use copper sulfate in ponds stocked with these fish. We suggest that treatment be made in stages in ponds where the algae scum has covered the entire surface. Treating the entire pond at once may cause the algae to use all the oxygen in the pond while it’s decaying. This often is what kills the fish rather than the chemical. The fish need the oxygen or they will die quickly. In these cases, we suggest spraying the product on to only a third of the pond at one time, then spraying the remaining portions a few days later.

No restrictions apply to the use of water treated with copper sulfate for irrigation and livestock. Treated water also may be used for domestic purposes if copper sulfate was applied in accordance with manufacturer’s directions. I have a bulletin on control of pond algae and other pond weeds that tells you what and how much to use of various chemicals.

Methane fun-facts

You’ll have to pardon me because this will be a very gassy column. But don’t worry — the gas in question is methane, which is actually completely odorless.

Let’s start off with a few quick methane fun-facts:

- Methane is a relatively common gas on Earth. It’s the main component of natural gas and it’s also released into the atmosphere as a waste product by many living organisms, including humans.
- Atmospheric methane — methane that is loose in our air — is a greenhouse gas that is actually more potent than carbon dioxide at retaining heat from the sun. However, it’s effect on the atmosphere is short-lived compared to carbon dioxide — only about 12 years for methane according to the Environmental Protection Agency, compared to 100+ for carbon dioxide.
- Atmospheric methane causes about 20 percent of all heat retention caused by greenhouse gases, according to the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change.
- Methane can be found naturally in the environment, however, globally more than 60 percent of methane emissions are caused by human-related activities.

When you think about who or what produces methane, the first thing you should think of is cows. Cows and other livestock such as sheep and goats all emit methane into the air throughout their lives.

Agriculture, including the raising of cows and livestock, is the largest human-related contributor for methane emissions in world, according to the EPA. However, in the U.S., industrial methane emissions, including natural gas and petroleum systems, are the leading contributor.

Down the list — but still among the biggest methane producers — are landfills, which are the third-largest source for the gas in the U.S., the EPA says.

When it comes to nationwide and global activities such as industry or agriculture, it can be hard to figure out good ways to have an impact as an individual. But when it comes to landfills, we’re talking about the trash we all produce and put out at our curbs every week.

You can alter the amount of methane produced in your local landfill by altering what and how much you throw away. It may be a small change in the big picture, but you can only create a big change through lots of small changes.

Food that has been thrown away is the major cause of methane in landfills — the

GOING GREEN In the Bluegrass

Amanda Wheeler
Eco-Columnist

food releases methane into the air as it biodegrades. Here are some ways to lessen the amount of food you throw away:

1. Use a compost bin.

Instead of throwing away food that will sit in a landfill and produce methane because it is breaking down without oxygen, throw your food waste in the compost bin so it can break down with oxygen and produce fantastically rich soil for use on your plants. When food waste breaks down in a compost bin, it does still produce carbon dioxide. But as long as the compost bin is properly cared for, it will not also produce methane.

2. Buy less food.

I know I’m guilty of buying too much food. Sometimes, I buy a lot of food — especially if it’s on sale — because I think that I will use it all. But time goes by, some food remains unused and then it goes bad. I have to throw the remainder away or compost it. That’s food — and money — that I just wasted, which kind of defeats the purpose of buying the stuff on sale in the first place.

If you are buying smaller quantities of food that you know you will use, you will drastically reduce your food waste. It can also be helpful to make a meal calendar and only purchase food based on the calendar.

3. Grow your own food.

You can easily grow your own garden of vegetables you know you like — I usually enjoy home-grown tomatoes and peppers every year. And if you follow tip No. 1, you’ll be able take the great soil from your compost bin and make your garden grow extremely well.

With a garden, you can more easily avoid over-buying food. Instead of purchasing food at the store, which has already been picked and is aging before you even buy it, if you plant a garden, you can pick just as much food as you would like. If you need more, go back out and pick some more. If you have enough, leave the rest on the plant to grow for a few more days.

I hope these tips will make it a little easier to manage your food waste. Having zero food waste is probably not realistic, but I think it is possible to make a real difference in the amount of food you are throwing out.

If you have any of your own tips for reducing food waste I’d love to hear them. Send them to me at amandawheelerphoto@live.com.

Enjoy a Safe Summer

Inter-County Energy would like to remind you to always put safety first when enjoying summer fun in the pool. Keep these safety tips in mind:

- Do not put any electrical appliances within five feet of a swimming pool.
- Any electrical outlets within twenty feet of a pool should be equipped with a GCFI, or Ground Fault Circuit Interrupter.
- Use battery operated, rather than electrical appliances near swimming pools.
- As always, never swim during a thunderstorm.

Remember to contact Inter-County Energy for information on line clearances when installing a new swimming pool. Visit our web site at www.intercountyenergy.net for more electrical safety tips.

This report is designed to inform the public about the quality of water and services provided on a daily basis. Our commitment is to provide our customers with a safe, clean, and reliable supply of drinking water. We want to assure that we will continue to monitor, improve, and protect the water system and deliver a high quality product. Water is the most indispensable product in every home and we ask everyone to be conservative and help us in our efforts to protect the water source and the water system.

The City of Hustonville purchases water from Danville, KY. The City of Danville treats surface water from Herrington Lake. An analysis of the susceptibility of the Danville water supply to contamination is generally moderate. However, there are areas of high concern. The Kentucky Division of Water has identified Herrington Lake as impaired. The causes for impairment are listed as follows: metals, nutrients, and organic enrichment/low dissolved oxygen. Forested areas and agriculture areas located in the watershed for Danville's intakes introduce the potential for logging and the application of agricultural chemicals-activities that contribute to non-point source pollution. Other areas of concern include power line rights-of-way with potential herbicide use, recreational grasses (i.e. golf courses) associated with the potential for chemical usage, major roads, and railways, large capacity septic systems, and numerous residential septic systems located throughout the watershed. The complete source water assessment plan is available for review at the City of Danville's water office.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects may be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and may pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include: Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, (sewage plants, septic systems, livestock operations, or wildlife). Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, (naturally occurring or from stormwater runoff, wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming). Pesticides and herbicides, (stormwater runoff, agriculture or residential uses). Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, (by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, or from gas stations, stormwater runoff, or septic systems). Radioactive contaminants, (naturally occurring or from oil and gas production or mining activities). In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water to provide the same protection for public health.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Some or all of these definitions may be found in this report:

Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) - the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL) - the highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG) - the level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.

Below Detection Levels (BDL) - laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.

Not Applicable (N/A) - does not apply.

Parts per million (ppm) - or milligrams per liter, (mg/l). One part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.

Parts per billion (ppb) - or micrograms per liter, (µg/L). One part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.

Parts per trillion (ppt) - one part per trillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000,000.

Parts per quadrillion (ppq) - one part per quadrillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000,000 years or one penny in $10,000,000,000,000.

Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - a measure of the radioactivity in water.

Millirems per year (mrem/yr) - measure of radiation absorbed by the body.

Million Fibers per Liter (MFL) - a measure of the presence of asbestos fibers that are longer than 10 micrometers.

Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) - a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity has no health effects. However, turbidity can provide a medium for microbial growth. Turbidity is monitored because it is a good indicator of the effectiveness of the filtration system.

Variances & Exemptions (V&E) - State or EPA permission not to meet an MCL or a treatment technique under certain conditions.

Action Level (AL) - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements that a water system shall follow.

Treatment Technique (TT) - a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Our water system violated one or more drinking water standards over the past year. Even though these were not emergencies, as our customers, you have a right to know what happened and what we did to correct these situations.

We are required to monitor your drinking water for specific contaminants on a regular basis. Results of regular monitoring are an indicator of whether or not our drinking water meets health standards. During 7/1/2014-12-31-2014 did not complete all monitoring or testing for Lead and Copper and therefore cannot be sure of the quality of our drinking water during that time.

There is nothing you need to do at this time. You do not need to use an alternative (e.g., bottled) water supply.

The table below lists the contaminant(s) we did not properly test for during the last year, how often we are supposed to sample for Lead and Copper and how many samples we are supposed to take, how many samples we took, when samples should have been taken, and the date on which follow-up samples were (or will be) taken.

contaminant	required sampling frequency	number of samples taken	samples should have been taken	when samples were or will be taken
5000 Lead & Copper rule	80	40	80	will be took in 2014

What happened? Who is at risk? What is being done?

We sampled for lead and copper but we only did 40 samples and the Division of Water required us to do 80 samples. Nobody is at risk. The next set of samples are being pulled after July 2014.

Please share this information with all the other people who drink this water, especially those who may not have received this notice directly (for example, people in apartments, nursing homes, schools, and businesses). You can do this by posting this notice in a public place or distributing copies by hand or mail.

Family Worship Center news

by Aline Matlock
Family Worship Center had a baptism Sunday following the worship service and sermon. It is always good to see people give their lives to the Lord, especially young children, usually they continue following the Lord as they get older.

There was a church picnic following the morning service at the home of Bro. and Sis. Gates. Everyone had a good time of food and fellowship.

We have some people that need our prayers. Sis. Barbara Martin is needing healing from the Lord. She is going to have surgery soon. Pray for this family.

The family of Sis. Donna Yocum that passed away a week or so ago still needs prayers. Sis. Donna will be missed by all of us at the church.

The youth group will be having a fundraiser. They will be serving dinner after service. Donations will be received.

The sermon was taken from Romans 6:12. Dead to sin, alive to Christ.

When we are baptized and commit our lives to God, ready to live His way and we want to put aside our past, we become new creatures in the Lord. Putting behind us the old man by nature, taking up a new way to live, Christ like in everything.

God’s word tells us old things are passed away, behold all things become new. When we do this, people will begin to see a new you, we think different, people can actually see a new you. That’s what we want. We want people to see Jesus in us. Our talk is different, we become more gentler, more forgiving, long suffering and much more!

When Paul saw Stephen’s attitude when he was being stoned to death, not bearing any harshness against His accuser, but asked God to forgive them for wanting to kill Stephen. Paul’s attitude changed somewhat, Stephen blamed no one for the terrible deed, that’s what being a true Christian will reveal a loving spirit to those that desire to harm us. We no longer wish to do harm to those that harm us but pray for their soul to be saved.

What a beautiful spirit Stephen showed with his compassion and loving spirit. That’s what God wants us to do when others rise up to hurt us with words or weapons, forgive them Father, they know not what they do.

News from Ottenheim area

By Dorothea Schlappi
We extend our sympathy to the Smith family in the loss of a loved one. Mary and Travis our thoughts are with you.

To Danielle and Andy Bratcher our prayers go out to you in Danielle’s grandmother entering into eternal life.

Our prayers are with all those who are hospitalized and have been sick lately. Get well wishes go to you.

The hot weather finally arrived, now we need rain. Seems we can always find something to complain about.

The Schlappi family reunion will be held this Saturday, June 21 at the Lutheran Historical Church grounds. Anyone wishing to stop by and say hello is welcome. Lunch will be at noon.

Congratulations to Becky Sizemore and Russell Schuler on their marriage, Sunday, June 24, 2014. It was a very beautiful, happy ceremony and reception. It was so good for everyone to visit, as there had not been a wedding in Ottenheim lately.

Some people are braver than others, as a group went sky diving last week. Eunice Schlappi, Clarence Lowery, Larry, Josh, Mark and Erin Lowery all had a safe landing, after jumping from an airplane, then after a few seconds, the chute opened, as the ones on the ground, watching drew a breath after holding it. They reported a joyous feeling as they saw the earth coming up to meet them. Something that will long be remembered I’m sure.

The snakes are bad this year, so when little ones play in the yard be careful. Also bears are being sited around the area.

The gardens are producing and the vegetables and berries are so tasty. Most of the crops have been planted and it’s been a short growth of hay crops so far.

Remember, if you want to be on the church sponsored community yard sale in Ottenheim on June 27 and 28, call (606) 365-7414 for more information.

I put in my last newsletter, if anyone would like to give a donation for the Halls Gap clean up, no one gave. If you still want, it can be made out to Hunter Taylor, Halls Gap fund and can be mailed to me at 2465 Hwy. 643, Waynesburg, KY 40489 and I’ll see he gets it.

They don’t want to clean the rack wall before they can install cameras and that takes money. Thanks.

To all the men, we hope you had a happy Father’s Day.

School is out now, more children will be out and about, so watch for them in traveling. There seems to be more Amish buggies on 643 and going up and down hills and these curves, it’s easy to come upon them so fast. Please be on the lookout for them.

Mistakes are part of the dues one pays for a full life. Trust God.

Crab Orchard Water District Water Quality Report for year 2013

Water - Essential for Life

Meetings: Crab Orchard City Hall
Meeting Dates and Time: 1st Thursday of each month 6:30 PM

This report is designed to inform the public about the quality of water and services provided on a daily basis. Our commitment is to provide our customers with a safe, clean, and reliable supply of drinking water. We want to assure that we will continue to monitor, improve, and protect the water system and deliver a high quality product. Water is the most indispensable product in every home and we ask everyone to be conservative and help us in our efforts to protect the water source and the water system.

The water for the City of Crab Orchard Water District is surface water that comes from the Kentucky River and is treated and sold to our customers via the Lancaster Water Works Treatment Plant. A source water assessment has been completed and shows that the susceptibility to contamination from Lancaster Water Works intake on the Kentucky River below the confluence of Davis Creek in pool 8, is considered generally moderate. There are, however a few areas of concern. Several bridges, agricultural areas, a hazardous materials handler and impaired water body occur in the immediate vicinity of the intake. These potential contaminants sources include everything from underground storage tanks and major roadways to forested areas with no potential for logging. The complete source water assessment is available for inspection at the Garrard County Judge-Executives office. (859-426-4791)

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects may be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and may pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include: Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, (sewage plants, septic systems, livestock operations, or wildlife). Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, (naturally occurring or from stormwater runoff, wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming). Pesticides and herbicides, (stormwater runoff, agriculture or residential uses). Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, (by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, or from gas stations, stormwater runoff, or septic systems). Radioactive contaminants, (naturally occurring or from oil and gas production or mining activities). In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water to provide the same protection for public health.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Some or all of these definitions may be found in this report:

Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.
Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) - the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.
Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL) - the highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.
Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG) - the level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.
Below Detection Levels (BDL) - laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.
Not Applicable (N/A) - does not apply.
Parts per million (ppm) - or milligrams per liter, (mg/l). One part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.
Parts per billion (ppb) - or micrograms per liter, (µg/L). One part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.
Parts per trillion (ppt) - one part per trillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000,000.
Parts per quadrillion (ppq) - one part per quadrillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000,000 years or one penny in $10,000,000,000,000.
Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - a measure of the radioactivity in water.
Millirems per year (mrem/yr) - measure of radiation absorbed by the body.
Million Fibers per Liter (MFL) - a measure of the presence of asbestos fibers that are longer than 10 micrometers.
Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) - a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity has no health effects. However, turbidity can provide a medium for microbial growth. Turbidity is monitored because it is a good indicator of the effectiveness of the filtration system.
Variances & Exemptions (V&E) - State or EPA permission not to meet an MCL or a treatment technique under certain conditions.
Action Level (AL) - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements that a water system shall follow.
Treatment Technique (TT) - a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Information About Lead:

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. Your local public water system is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>.

The data presented in this report are from the most recent testing done in accordance with administrative regulations in 401 KAR Chapter 8. As authorized and approved by EPA, the State has reduced monitoring requirements for certain contaminants to less often than once per year because the concentrations of these contaminants are not expected to vary significantly from year to year. Some of the data in this table, though representative, may be more than one year old. Unless otherwise noted, the report level is the highest level detected.

We failed to prepare and submit to the Department of Environmental Protection a certification of the distribution of the Consumer Confidence Report last year. We also had in the CCR missing data on the table including the wholesale data. Blanks/non detects were in the table. only detected contaminants are allowed in CCR monitoring table. Newspaperaer clippings does not show name of paper or date of certification. The name of the newspapers is Interior Journal in Standford, KY. The date we sent to the paper was 6/13/2013. We have since used a different template to solve all the other issues this yer and will send the certification in on timely manner.

FLOODPLAINS AND WETLANDS NOTICE EARLY PUBLIC NOTICE

This is to give notice that the City of Hustonville under 24 CFR Part 58 has conducted an evaluation as required by Executive Order 11988 and/or 11990, in accordance with HUD regulations at 24 CFR 55.20 Subpart C Procedures for Making Determinations on Floodplain Management, to determine the potential affect that its project in the floodplain and wetland will have on the human environment for Phase I & IA Sewer Project (Junction City to Hustonville) under SAI# KY201303080185 & KY201306180659.

Proposed is the construction of a sanitary sewage collection and conveyance system to serve 535 residential customers and 50 commercial customers in the western portion of Lincoln County which has no sanitary sewer system. This is including, but not limited to, homes and businesses along US 127 starting south of Junction City and proceeding to the City of Hustonville.

Current sewage disposal consists of a combination of septic tanks and straight pipes resulting in direct discharges of raw sewage of septic tank and septic tank effluent to the ground surface. The project area has a documented pathogen contamination problem caused by improperly functioning septic systems and straight pipes.

This project will eliminate approximately 223 failing septic tanks, 101 raw sewage discharges, and 2 package treatment plants thereby addressing a significant environmental and human health concern. An inadequate sewage package treatment plant will be eliminated at the Hustonville Elementary School.

Written comments must be received by Leann Lacy at the following address on or before July 4th, 2014, BGADD, 699 Perimeter Dr., Lexington, KY 40517, 859.269.8021 Ext 317. Business hours are 8-4:30. Comments may also be submitted via email at llacy@bgadd.org.

Growing with Grace: Grace Fellowship Church summer news

Father's Day was celebrated in a wonderful way this past Sunday morning. Two young fathers, Bryan Hart and Jason Hurt, shared their testimonies of how their fathers had influenced them and how they wanted to impact their own children in a Christian environment. At the conclusion of the service, one young child came to give his life to the Lord and two parents joined the church. What a wonderful way to celebrate Father's Day! A large group of youth and adult leaders, along with Youth Pastor Aaron Stamper, departed for church camp on Sunday morning, just after Life Groups (Sunday school) and will return on Thursday. We pray for their safety and that they will have a meaningful and spiritual experience. Last week at Grace was a busy time with Vacation Bible School. Average attendance of students two years old through 6th grade was 88. Thanks to all parents and volunteer workers for helping. We especially want to thank Jennifer Stamper, GFC Children's Minister, for all her hard work in organizing and leading VBS. Last week two men from Grace Fellowship, Jimmy Gordon and Phillip Stevens, joined the mission team "Carpenters for Christ," as they volunteered time and labor to help Gethsemane Baptist Church in Danville to build a new fellowship hall. This mission team, made up of about 80 Christian men from seven states, devotes one week each year to help churches in need. We thank everyone who has returned a filled baby bottle with change or cash to help the Haven Care Center in Danville. This is a non-profit organization that reaches out to those with unplanned pregnancies to help them choose life. If you haven't yet returned your "Bottles of Blessings" you can still do so next Sunday, June 22. If you are looking for a church home, Pastor Vola Brown would like to invite you to visit Grace Fellowship. Dress is casual, praise and worship is uplifting, and you will be welcomed and feel "at home" among friends. We are located on U.S. Hwy 27, just one-half mile south of Lincoln County High School. Sunday Life Groups begin at 10:00, followed by morning worship at 11:00. Wednesday evening youth and children activities, along with adult Bible study begin at 7 p.m. If you are unable to attend church, tune in to WPBK 102.9 FM for a live broadcast of the Sunday morning worship service. For more information, check out the website at GraceFellowshipStanford.com or call (606) 365-0502.
